Executive Summary

The 2015-2016 school year is the last year in an original five-year charter. To accomplish renewal, the board and the leadership team should be engaged in significant planning and evaluation to position the school for future success. The OCSO notes concerns from the past school year that should be considered in planning for charter renewal. Specifically:

- The school lacks an adequate sized board with the skills and resources to address significant challenges, including, but not limited to: unstable and inadequate finances, an adequate facility, and the ability to attract strong academic leaders and teachers.
- The school has continued to struggle financially without a plan for remediation or any external fundraising or grant writing activity.
- After five years, the school still has not established a stable student culture that affords all students a safe and orderly environment where all are able to focus and learn.
- The school consistently performs at the bottom of all schools in the state, the district, and among all charter schools, on all comparisons.

These findings are described in more detail below and additional evidence can be found in the staff and teacher survey results in the Appendix.

GOVERNANCE	Inadequate	Approaching	Meets Expectations	Exceeds Expectations
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There has been no indication the board has undertaken a comprehensive review of policies and procedures to incorporate the federal changes in fiscal requirements or to prepare for renewal. • The board meets consistently and minutes and agendas are posted on the website. • Only two members responded to the sponsor survey, thus allowing no ability to provide valid feedback.
Board Development
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The board added one member this year, but it is still small and lacking some critical skills in this demanding renewal period while the school faces serious financial deficits and a facilities challenge. • No evidence of individual or whole-board training.
Board Planning
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The board engaged in strategic planning with a consultant this year, but the OCSO has not seen future plans. • The school has consistently struggled financially, without a solid plan for remedial action. • There was no consistent engagement with the board or school leaders to ensure compliance with the annual performance contract.
School Oversight
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • School leaders regularly attend and report at board meetings, but there is little engagement or inquiry by the board. • The board has not held the CEO or other school leaders to measurable performance standards. • The board is over-reliant on the CEO to manage all activities, financial and academic.

FINANCES & OPERATIONS	Inadequate	Approaching	Meets Expectations	Exceeds Expectations
Health & Stability
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The school continues to operate on a deficit and take loans to meet ASBR carryover requirements, without which the school would be considered financially distressed. • Budgets are not stable throughout the year, and require frequent adjustments.
Reporting & Compliance
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Jamaa generally meets reporting and compliance requirements and deadlines. • However, the school has still not addressed separation of duties issues that have been raised in every annual audit and the financial manager is still not acting in that capacity. • There were ongoing issues on reporting daily attendance to DESE.
General Operations
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Facilities are in general disrepair and teachers and staff report lack of necessary supplies and equipment.
Fundraising and Grants
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • No evidence of successful fundraising or grant activity, however the board did start a capital campaign. • Inadequate board and staff expertise or resources to engage in fundraising or grant writing.

CULTURE & ENVIRONMENT	Inadequate	Approaching	Meets Expectations	Exceeds Expectations
Leadership
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • While teachers and staff report a positive and supportive environment, leadership has not been successful in creating positive learning outcomes as measured by state assessments. • Students and staff do not report a safe and orderly environment.
Physical Environment
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The school is in general disrepair and the future facility issues have not been addressed. • Teachers, staff and students find the environment to be less than safe and orderly.
Culture
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The leadership team is flexible and supportive of each other and the other teachers. • While teachers and staff feel Jamaa is a supportive family, serious culture issues remain. • The school still lacks a consistently applied schoolwide behavior plan. • It is clear when visiting that some teachers are overwhelmed by a few students and they do not have adequate support to address the challenges. • Student and teacher turnover were high.
Outreach
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There have been few parent or community complaints. • Jamaa continues to engage with numerous community partners to provide additional services and opportunities for students.

ACADEMIC OUTCOMES	Inadequate	Approaching	Meets Expectations	Exceeds Expectations
Assessments
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2015 MAP results still place Jamaa at the bottom of the state and all charter schools. • The school uses multiple assessments, but the board is not provided consistent reports on progress, or lack of progress. • Student data is not being used to address lack of achievement. And poor achievement is not being addressed for individual students.
Teacher Quality & Effectiveness
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Teacher turnover remains a significant problem. • Teachers do not have adequate support or mentoring and survey responses indicate ongoing lack of planning time, breaks and daily support from aides or others when classroom challenges arise. • The school continues to loop teachers without adequate training or curriculum guidance.
Curriculum
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The lowest response on the teacher survey was to the statement “the school has a clearly defined, high quality curriculum.” • The second lowest response was to the statement “teachers at this school have the necessary supplies (i.e. papers, markers) to support learning.
Special Populations
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Teachers and staff indicate problems addressing behavioral challenges and Title I and MAP results indicate lack of progress.

Office of Charter School Operations
Jamaa Annual Report
Appendix: Survey Results

Every year, the OCSO performs a survey of all board members, teachers and staff. Other surveys may be performed as needed, or requested.

This year, only two board members responded to the survey. Results are not included due to lack of feedback.

Nine teachers and eight staff members responded to the survey and those results are included.

Each survey item will show the median response, the range and the standard deviation. Each report is highlighted in green to show positive or above average responses, and in orange to show less desirable responses. There is no science to this display. In general, the highest and most consistent scores were noted as positive and the lowest, and most variable scores were highlighted for possible attention.

COMMENTS SUMMARIZED BY MAJOR THEMES

A supportive environment for all learners.

- Most teachers at Jamaa treat other adults and scholars w/ respect. At Jamaa we feel more as a family working with scholars to improve their lives and grow as students.
- In our culture all the staff try hard to help each other and support each other.
- The school creates a very family kind of feel, for staff and students. The scholars feel supported and the staff feel supported.
- The culture of the school is effective, overall; we are all still "a work in progress", making leaps and bounds to reach our goal(s).
- Jamaa employs communally-focused motivation and culture to drive individual scholars to achieve excellence.
- We, at Jamaa, are passionate, student-centered advocates for a more scholarly experience for St. Louis City scholars than SLPS, in general, provides. We are new, we are learning, we will keep moving forward. We realize a school must have a whole-team approach that includes parent input to teach our lofty goal of helping students become life-long learners.
- Most scholars can tell you the expectations and recite our school creed. When others enter class we have a standard communication so all understand what the vocabulary means. Teachers are supportive of one another and students.

Improvements are being noted.

- Teachers have high expectations for all students. Students are exhibiting an improvement in behaviors throughout the entire day. I enjoy coming to work at Jamaa.

Behavioral issues remain a problem, especially in the middle school.

- If negative behaviors would decrease, I think the culture would improve. Also, we need to be more consistent on consequences when (bad) behaviors do happen.
- Still very concern with safety and respect of other students and teachers. Also follow through with expectations of culture such as uniform infractions.
- The culture of the school as a whole can be described as chaotic at times due to behaviors. I feel like my classroom culture is very loving and sometimes can be chaotic at times due to behaviors.
- The staff atmosphere is positive and supportive, but there are still struggles with getting scholars to "buy in" to the system.
- The culture is very disturbing. Lots of behavioral issues cause scholars less learning opportunities.

Other changes are still needed.

- Also lack of planning time and no lunch is a major concern for me.
- Staff morale is low due to long work hours with inconsistent breaks.
- We have high expectations, but rarely enforced by all.
- The culture of Jamaa isn't consistent. Also, professional training for new staff is misunderstood.

COMMENTS ORGANIZED BY MAJOR THEMES

A supportive environment for all learners.

- Staff flexibility is the biggest strength of the school as they work with a variety of students and their surrounding issues on a daily basis.
- Jamaa is a school that gives all students an opportunity to succeed regardless of any past mistakes, failures or rejections the student may have had in the past. Jamaa works as a "village" to produce change and does not give up.
- I believe our culture continues to improve. We have come a long way since I started. I hope that we will continue to grow stronger together as a staff so that we are able to support each other as well as the scholars who depend on us for their education. With our current goals and plans we will continue to meet our school goals each year.
- The culture of the school is extremely different depending on the grade. The culture in the elementary grades is more positive than negative. There is more motivation from both scholars and parents to be successful in school.
- The culture of the school is like a family. We are growing together, learning together and supporting each other in the process as we strive for academic and behavior excellence!

Improvements are being noted.

- Changing effectively to adjust to the changes needed mostly based in the physical environment.
- The school and organizational culture is continuing to strengthen. Showing great improvement from the previous year and is reflective of a typical school/organization in its infancy stages (year 2 after restart in 2013). Strongest culture is evident with staff that was here last year and shows real promise for some staff that began this year.

Behavioral issues remain a problem, especially in the middle school.

- The culture in middle school seems to be more negative than positive at times. The middle school scholars lack pride in where they go to school.
- Behavior is a huge detriment to academic success, especially when inappropriate behaviors are not resolved.
- There is no consistency with consequences for inappropriate behaviors.
- The lack of support staff in my opinion, strongly contributes to the behavior management problem.

Other changes are still needed.

- The culture of Jamaa is always changing. There is a staff disconnect. There is a huge lack of planning and preparedness by administration.
- This school needs a building that is conducive to learning. More space, more supplies. I feel some of the teachers have low expectations and don't academically challenge their class.
- I feel Jamaa can still be a great educational institution for the children of St. Louis with a few minor adjustments!
